

Small Note

Dear Mrs. Reilly

It offended me when you thought that I stole my writings, and I didn't. But, there is no way to prove I write what I make up. What actually made me upset, was that you lowered my score because you didn't believe I had made it up. In the score page you chose to put my Effective Lead and Conclusion result as a 3. It's not a big deal to most people, but I am not most people. If my lead and conclusion weren't a definite four I don't know what is. When I heard of Genghis Khan, I was inspired, I wanted to grasp every bit of information to my fingertips how badly I wanted to find out. I became obsessed for a couple of days, but it wore out. Maybe it's just my stubbornness or confidence, but I think you should make a change. But not only that, if my scores on the sheet are 3, 3, 4, 2, 3, 3, 1, how could the result be 2 as an average?

Yes, I do admit I forgot the pictures, apologize for that, I have fixed that issue, as well as the mechanical errors. Again, I apologize for the late work and I am grateful that you allow it.

Sincerely,

Tin Cetic
